

Sam Mcgarvey aims high with Partnership for Learning's Apprenticeship Programme.

Partnership for Learning's Apprenticeship programmes are industry developed frameworks for training young people in the workplace in areas that are current, relevant and encompass all the skills and knowledge that a young person would require within that industry. PfL offers a variety of different levels of Apprenticeship all lead to National Vocational Qualifications (NVQs), Key Skills qualifications and where applicable a Technical Certificate. Apprentices are employed and undertake both on and off-the-job training throughout their apprenticeship, including attendance at college where applicable. Partnership for Learning offer apprenticeships in the following areas:

- Engineering,
- Gas/Plumbing,
- Information Technology,
- Business Administration.

Sam Mcgarvey began an Business Administration Apprenticeship at PfL in July 2007 after leaving college. Since then he has gained a lot of experience in the working environment. He has become an integral part of the team at PfL working with other apprentices on the website, and monthly magazine. He more recently helped out on an 'Engineering in Action' day at Aintree Race Course to promote Apprenticeships to young people in the Northwest. Sam says "it is important for students to know the wide range of career options and opportunities that are out there for them, and days like this are a great way of getting the message across!" Sam who began his apprenticeship with Partnership for Learning in July 2007 says "It was the best choice I have made, sometimes when you leave school it is difficult to know what to do next, working at PfL has given me a range of life skills as well as great career prospects. I would recommend apprenticeships to anyone who is ready to use their skills in a work environment as well as learn more skills on the job."

Photograph on the left: Sam Mcgarvey tackles the army climbing wall.

The 2008 Apprenticeship programme is now open, for an application form please call 0151 288 2100.

If you think an apprenticeship is for you or would like more information please call 0151 288 2100 and ask for Mark Wynne.

Please Submit Applications to Apprentice Team, Partnership For Learning, South Road, Liverpool, L24 9PZ

Picture on the left Sam Mcgarvey with some young people from a local Northwest School at the 'Engineering in Action' Day.